Research Statement

Sławomir Solecki
University of Illinois

My mathematical work is frequently motivated by Descriptive Set Theory. Descriptive Set Theory is a branch of mathematical logic studying definable subsets and definable quotients of Polish spaces. Such subsets and quotients occur in a number of areas of mathematics, which makes it possible to apply descriptive set theoretic methods to problems in these areas. Some of my work consists of such applications.